Earache Records is the best underground label for overseas hardrock bands ever & back in the mid 90's they released numerous home video releases that highlighted all the labels best acts via their music videos & on this dvd, there's a slew of bonus material which features rare live videos from Carcass, Napalm Death & Cathedral to name only a few. The Carcass video for "Heartwork" got decent airplay on the old Headbanger's Ball & it was a definite favorite of mine, & "Wolverine Blues" by Entombed, which featured their old drummer, who would wind up being the singer/guitarist for the Hellacopters many years later! Pitchshifter, Godflesh, At The Gates, Bolt Thrower....you have it all on this dvd & it's great to see these vintage video clips being re-issued on dvd for those who were too young to experience them the first go round & also it's great nostalgia for those who lived it the first time, because you're NOT going to see these video's on TV at all!!!
