Ice T: Live in Montreux, 1995

MVDVisual, 192 minutes, $19.95

Before he became a TV cop, Ice T was a rapper with a controversial song: "Cop Killer," which made him enemies among America's law enforcement community. This show was recorded at the Montreux Jazz Festival, which actually features more than just jazz. Supposedly, he could be freer on this show because it wasn't in front of the American audience. Second bonus disc adds a concert with his group Body Count from 2003, plus a studio video shoot, discography and biography.
