I have tickets for a Jon Anderson intimate show at Le Palais Montcalm in Québec City in two weeks. I must admit I did not know too much what to expect, but after listening to Live From La La Land... I just can't wait for that show.

Live From La La Land captures Jon Anderson performing his solo songs and selected items from both the Yes catalogue and his work with Vangelis in an intimate setting at the Roxy in Los Angeles, California.

His singing voice is as good as ever and he does not quite push it as much as he did in the Yes concerts I have attended... and this is a good thing IMO. The recording quality is just incredible and the acoustic setting lets us rediscover his songs in a totally different format. For example, "Turn of the Century" almost becomes a new song and is even more moving than the original. This is true for most of the material on Live From La La Land. Also, I must admit to not knowing that Jon Anderson was such a good musician. His performance on guitar and piano is excellent.

Live From La La Land is a highly recommended album for lovers of Jon Anderson, Yes or acoustic songs in general. This is a record that should certainly appeal to a wide audience of music lovers.
