

ROBIN TROWER 'LIVING OUT OF TIME (LIVE): LIVE AT ROCKPALAST DVD' (IN AKUSTIK/MUSIC VIDEO DISTRIBUTORS)

Starting in the early 60s, the London based guitarist ROBIN TROWER has made a household name through the years, first with PROCOL HARUM, but mainly as a solo guitarist since the early 1970s. His bluesy guitarplaying was and still is not far away from JIMI HENDRIX and ERIC CLAPTON, which has been so for more than 30 years now and just recently a new DVD has been released of the man's work. It concerns here a live performance he gave at his 60th birthday on March 9, 2005 in Bonn/Germany. It was one of the well-known Rockpalast concerts, which are known for TV broadcast on German Television, but also used for DVD coverage. The DVD contains the live performance of Robin as well as an interview with him, with a total playing time of 104 minutes. Of course it is a typical Bluesrock performance where the jamming takes an important part, but there's still plenty of time calculated for songs like "Too Rolling Stoned", "Living Out Of Time", "I Want You To Love Me", "Please Tell Me" and "Little Bit Of Sympathy". More info on the DVD release and availability through:

<http://www.musicvideodistributors.com>

<http://www.angelfire.com/zine2/gk/HOTNEWREVIEWS.htm>