DVD documentary covers history of industrial music

MVD Entertainment Group will release a new documentary, Metal Machine Music: Nine Inch Nails and the Industrial Uprising, April 7 on DVD. Covering the industrial music scene from its UK origins in the '70s up through its mainstream crossover in the '90s, the documentary uses Nine Inch Nails as its focal point and features interviews with former band members Chris Vrenna and Richard Patrick, rock journalists Tommy Udo and Jon Wiederhorn, and other industrial musicians such as Chemlab's Jared Louche. The DVD also features rare footage from such artists as Throbbing Gristle, Cabaret Voltaire, Skinny Puppy, Depeche Mode and Ministry, plus a short feature entitled "The Genesis of Industrial," an exclusive interview with Genesis Breyer P-Orridge (of Throbbing Gristle and Psychic TV) on the roots of industrial music.
