Frequency Magazine described Arikan Kane's self-titled debut album as "authentic soul." Her hit single, Bcuz I Luv U, garnered radio airplay and sizzled up the charts. Arikan's sophomore single, 4 The Lovers, is swiftly taking over the airwaves and has the internet all abuzz about this R&B songstress.

Arikan has been fascinated by music since she can remember. Arikan grew up in Connecticut in a close-knit musical family. Both of her parents are musicians and her father is an accomplished songwriter. At the age of ten, Arikan confidently picked up a microphone and, since then, has yet to put it down. "Music is my only true way of expression," says Arikan Kane. "I am willing to share all of myself through my music. There is absolutely nothing that I would not write about because my experiences are what led me to where I am today."

The album, ARIKAN KANE, is already garnering praise. Hip Hop Weekly wrote "Arikan's debut album delivers a complete composition that will really resonate with true music fans." CD Baby named Arikan Kane as one of the "hottest new up-and-coming artists to hit the music scene." From the soulful Never Really Knew U to the playful Ring My Bell to the sorrowful Why Did We Fall N Luv, the songs are a portal straight to Arikan's thoughts and emotions. Also featured on the album is a soulful rendition of the Bobby Brown classic, Rock Witcha.

Last November, Arikan was honored to be a part of the "One World Tour" with R&B legends Maze, Frankie Beverly, Babyface and Charlie Wilson in Southaven, Mississippi. Another highlight of her career has been performing at the famous Sugar Bar owned and operated by the legendary Ashford & Simpson. Currently, Arikan is preparing to embark on her first major promotional tour.

"I am so excited for the world to hear my album. Every song has its own identity and place, yet they are all equally amazing," says Arikan. "My goal in all my music is to make people feel good. I really believe that we do not embrace the really good things in life as much as we should and through my music I hope to contribute to that."

The spotlight is on Arikan Kane and, with her drive, confidence and focus, she is determined to Make It!
