

The Boston Globe

Tuesday, September 11, 2007

insidekick

---

Music on DVD

Tony Palmer's "All My Loving"

Made in 1968, Tony Palmer's "All My Loving" (ZEIT) is a powerful documentary featuring major 60s musicians - from a sexually charged Jimi Hendrix to an air-headed Donovan - discussing the new world order of peace and love. Oddly, the Rolling Stones are absent, but Sir Paul McCartney, baby-faced and handsome, weighs in. The DVD is out Sept. 18, but you can get a sneak preview this weekend, when Coolidge Corner Theatre screens it Friday and Saturday.

- Linda Laban