Hip Hop 411

Peep Diss Videos Presents...

Unlimited TV/MVD

Less fun than spending an hour with touchy-feely lepers, Snoop Dogg and friends steal an hour and never give it back.

I've had a shit day, a shit week and unless I win a bag full of flesh next week, a shit month; coming home all I really want is enough room to do my dance and enough food to fill my holes. To relax, I watch a DVD, a hip hop DVD from the nice people at Peep Diss Videos, a DVD promising 'Exclusive Intimate Interview's' with Jay Z, Pharell Williams and Ice-T' etc. Exclusivity apparently gained from occupying the same, large room whilst holding a camera, it quickly transpires that Hip Hop 411 is a poorly executed excuse for DVD, created for the soul purpose of swelling my head. As my eyes fill with blood, a line of talking heads talk in tongues about shit, all the while a weak beat gradually loosens my bowels before my lower half explodes with anger.

Had it not been for the liberal sprinklings of host Natasha Williams, a lady so hot it's untrue, Hip Hop 411 is an indefensible exercise in deplorable marketing; were it on MTV you'd question your subscription fee, thus watching it on DVD is akin to paying for Chlamydia.
