Meat Loaf with a side of Thin Lizzy and Creedence

Creedence Clearwater Revisited Extends a helping hand

Drummer Doug "Cosmo" Clifford and bassist Stu Cook of the legendary American band Creedence Clearwater Revival are pleased to be a part of the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation's charity CD "Hope For The Holidays — Rockin' Christmas for a Cure."

The Rock and Roll Hall of Famers, with Creedence Clearwater Revisited (who we enjoyed at the Beau Rivage) contributed a version of Chuck Berry's 1958 Christmas classic "Run Rudolph Run" for inclusion on the JDRF CD. The 27-track collection includes holiday recordings from Weezer, Collective Soul, The Beach Boys, Jon Anderson of Yes and others. Juvenile diabetes (Type 1) is a devastating disease that can strike children and adults suddenly, but lasts a lifetime. Approximately 24 million Americans have diabetes and that number is on the rise.

"Hope for the Holidays" is currently available at national retail outlets including Best Buy with all profits benefiting the JDRF.

'BLOOD EQUITY: The Dark Side of America's Biggest Blood Sport,' Roman Phifer (Walking Shadows/Discernment Films, HHH)

This recent DVD release shows the price that NFL players have paid for their participation in the game that has grown to be America's most popular spectator sport. Until recent years, salaries for their short careers were minimal, and even now, most of them have no lasting health or disability insurance plans to take care of the issues that arise five or more years after retirement. In spite of a somewhat-bothersome warning about "home viewing only," pro football fans who care about their heroes of old will want to get this video, which features interviews with former players like Harry Carson (Giants), Darryl Johnson (Cowboys), former player and coach Mike Ditka, and others.

'Are You Ready?' Thin Lizzy (Eagle Rock Entertainment, HHH 1/2)

This Nov. 10 DVD joins past Eagle Rock releases by numerous artists, as well as two other Nov. 10 releases in pointing out the importance of the German TV series Rockpalast. This 1981 performance by Thin Lizzy, led by the late Phil Lynott shows why they're one of Ireland's most legendary exports. This line-up isn't the classic four-piece captured on VH1 Classic Records' Still Dangerous in March; but this band (guitarist Scott Gorham, drummer Brian Downey, guitarist Snowy White and keyboardist Darren Wharton) still makes great use of their leader's penchant for great melodic hooks and lyrics.
