What would Jesus (Jonathan C. Green) do if he returned to Earth and discovered that he was wildly out of touch with today's youth? In Ultrachrist!, he dons a Spandex costume and goes out into the streets of New York City to fight sin wherever it rears its ugly head.

His disapproving Father (Don Creech) wants him to minister as he did 2000 years ago. The Antichrist, in the guise of the New York City Park's Commissioner (Samuel Bruce Campbell), resurrects a legion of famous sinners to destroy him. And when the beautiful seamstress Molly (Celia A. Montgomery) tempts Ultrachrist with Earthly love, his own inner hang-ups guarantee that redemption will not come easily.

Can Ultrachrist come to terms with his human side and lead mankind to salvation? In the words of his Father: "I've had this terrible vision! You go forward as Ultrachrist, but end up wagering your soul to Satan. The rest of the prophecy is too weird to go into . . ."

But it's just another day in the life of Ultrachrist!
