YOU'LL BE SICK, SICK, SICK — FROM LAUGHTER!

From producer-director Roger Corman come two cult classics that explore the madness of ambition, popularity, and greed. In A Bucket of Blood, meek busboy Walter Paisley (Dick Miller) stumbles into fame after a grisly accident transforms him into the darling of the beatnik art scene, only to discover that true artistic inspiration demands ever-deadlier mediums. A young Francis Ford Coppola makes his directorial debut with Corman as his producer with Dementia 13, a gothic, bloody web of family secrets, psychological horror, and axe murders. Paired together, these two cult classics make for a delightful midnight screening!
