BIOGRAPHIES

Ernest 'Skillet' Mayhand
 March 1, 1916 – May 12, 2007

Leroy 'Sloppy' Daniels
 November 28, 1928 – December 11, 1993

Ernest Mayhand started out as a vaudeville performer and Leroy Daniels as a shoe shiner. They teamed up in the mid-1950's to form the comedy team of 'Skillet & Leroy'. The duo would soon add LaWanda Page to their act and performed frequently at the Brass Rail night club in Los Angeles, California. Several successful comedy albums were released in the late 1960's through the 1970's and multiple appearances on Redd Foxx's successful sitcom, SANFORD & SON, gave them an audience of millions. The two appeared together alongside Rudy Ray Moore in his 1977 film, PETEY WHEATSTRAW: THE DEVIL'S SON IN LAW and in a live home video release entitled 'Don't Hold Your Laff'.

LaWanda 'Aunt Esther' Page
 Alberta Peal – October 19, 1920 – September 14, 2002

Born in Cleveland Ohio, but reared in St. Louis, Missouri, Page began her career as a dancer and chorus girl on the club circuit. While performing as a stripper in St. Louis, Missouri, she was billed "The Bronze Goddess of Fire" because she lit cigarettes with her fingertips, swallowed fire and touched flaming torches to her body. In the late 1960's Page turned to comedy, teaming up with the popular duo, Skillet and Leroy on several of their comedy albums. Page would later release multiple comedy albums of her own and was known for wrapping her panties around the heads of unsuspecting male patrons during her live performances. Her childhood friend, comedian Redd Foxx, gave her the biggest break of her career when he insisted she play his fiery, Bible-thumping sister-in-law Aunt Esther on his hit 70s TV series SANFORD & SON at the age of 53. She continued to make multiple television (227, Amen, Martin) and film appearances (Friday, CB4, Don't Be A Menace) through 1996. Page passed away on September 14, 2002 from complications of diabetes.
