IAN GILLAN BAND

LIVE AT THE RAINBOW 1977

Guitarist RAY FENWICK recalls:

“Touring with The IAN GILLAN BAND in the 70s was a wild affair, both on and off stage. In the best traditions of Rock and Roll, we courted our fair share of controversy; but come showtime, we turned into a tight, professional outfit, performing our own unique brand of rock music. It was on 14th May 1977, in front of a full house at The Rainbow Theatre, London. We were promoting the “Clear Air Turbulence” album. Chris Blackwell, the label owner, was there that night checking out his “investment”.

What is presented on this DVD is an important chapter of an essential British Rock performer, whose successes have now spanned four decades.”
