MARGARET CHO is a brilliant, taboo-busting comedian who has been compared to Lenny Bruce, Richard Pryor and George Carlin. With her raunchy humor, she has a way of disarming her audience, dismantling preconceptions, and delivering punchlines that sting with wit and veracity.

Her second concert film "Notorious C.H.O." has just been released in Los Angeles, and will be followed immediately with releases in New York and San Francisco, then throughout the U.S. Margaret's previous show "I'm The One I Want" was an off-Broadway hit in 1999, and later successfully released as a movie.

"DRUNK WITH POWER" is Margaret's first comedy CD. In it she draws strongly from her upbringing in San Francisco as a second generation Korean American. She will keep you laughing from beginning to end as she discusses growing up in San Francisco—"some people are raised by wolves—I was raised by Drag Queens," her sexual hang-ups, her body parts, and her bout with a kidney stone to name just a few of her topics. Her unique comic view and interpretation of her life is what makes MARGARET CHO one of today's outstanding comedians. "DRUNK WITH POWER" is a "must" CD for anyone who is a MARGARET CHO fan and an aficionado of comedy.
